

APPENDIX E

WEBSITES

How to use this section:

There are countless websites available for almost every topic regarding disabilities, and almost every website has a countless number of links for even more specific and detailed information. That is how this section is to be used. The listing of websites available for various topics is not an exhaustive one. Many websites become outdated or obsolete, and as of December 2000, all of the ones listed in this manual were up and running. Add or delete sites as needed from the available lists. Websites are noted if they are an “all-inclusive” site, which means they can provide information on a very wide range of special needs or special education topic areas.
